Re: S-17640 Daniel C. Lewis v. State of Alaska, Department of Corrections

Dear Mr. Lewis:

I received your letter dated April 13, 2020. I'm not entirely sure I know what you are referring to in your letter as the opening brief you've already filed, but I assume you're referring to the November 12, 2019 document titled "Daniel C. Lewis is Petitioning the Alaska Supreme Court Under Alaska Rules Appellant Procedure 216(a), (c) as Permitted by Alaska Rules Appellant Procedure 202". This document does not conform to Appellate Rules 210 and 212, the rules governing the format of briefs and excerpts. Additionally, as you point out in your letter, you still have yet to receive the numbered record on appeal that was prepared by our office. We wouldn't expect you to file your brief and excerpt without having access to the trial court record on appeal.

I am enclosing with this letter a blank brief form, instructions for preparing a brief and excerpt, and a printed copy of the trial court record on appeal. We did send you a CD containing the record on appeal on April 7, 2020, but you must not have received it.

Because you have yet to receive the record on appeal, I am also issuing an amended appellant's brief notice setting your opening brief due date for thirty three days from today. A copy of the amended brief notice is also enclosed.

Sincerely,

Ryan Montgomery-Sythe
